

VIRTUE CONFERENCING OFFERS NEW AND EXTENDED CAPABILITIES

London, UK – 30 September 2004

Virtue Communications ('Virtue'), following their recent merger with World Television, the television and event production specialist, is pleased to announce an upgrade to its Training and Meeting Centre product. This upgrade has been developed after extensive surveys and user reviews resulting in a new version, which includes enhanced features and some completely new capabilities, of which a major focus was the re-designed user interface.

A completely new feature is the support for telephone conferencing where presenters can now configure the meeting room accordingly and participants get displayed all required access numbers and PINs. Other enhancements include the surveys and test system, automated system check, enhanced PowerPoint import options, extended APIs (application programming interfaces) and various other extensions.

The greatest benefit of the Virtue Training and Meeting Centre Solution is its simplicity, removing many of the often-quoted issues of today's Web conferencing solutions. Users do not have to install any software, its architecture ensures there are no firewall issues, and integration with 3rd party products is simple and straightforward.
