Foroso Communications and Fischer, Knoblauch & Co. enter into cooperation

Munich, December 1, 2003 – Fischer, Knoblauch & Co. and Foroso Communications enter into a new cooperation. As of now, the Foroso Training Center will be offered by Fischer, Knoblauch & Co. in the context of complete solutions.

As a full service provider for customer-specific application software, Fischer, Knoblauch & Co. (FKC) offers learning management systems, eLearning content, and B2B software solutions. This covers everything from consulting, concept work, implementation of projects, and organizational support. Software products such as FKC NOMOWEB learning platform and Hospital Learn & Information Platform (HLIP) support customers to easily and efficiently administrate their content and digital education concepts.

As a new component of the FKC solution portfolio, the Foroso Training Center is now offered. Without any software installation, participants can collaborate with trainers and other students, in real time and with any kind of content. A multitude of features support communication and interaction between all participants.

„We perceive Foroso’s product as a cost-effective way for productive and flexible learning. It’s an interesting extension of other electronic learning options. We are eager to offer this opportunity now to our customers.“ states Guy Fischer, CEO of FKC.

„We are pleased about this new cooperation with FKC. Due to their solution competence, FKC is an attractive partner für Foroso“, says Franz Buchenberger, President and CEO of Foroso Communications. „With this new partnership we can again extend our reach as specialist for virtual classrooms.“
