

International coordination with eMeetings saves time and money

CCF Kinderhilfswerk can help more efficiently through Foroso Communications

Munich, July 28, 2003 – CCF Kinderhilfswerk uses the eMeeting product of Foroso Communications to facilitate global project coordination. This saves travel cost and the saved monetary resources can be used in favor of help projects.

CCF Kinderhilfswerk supports international projects in Eastern Europe, Africa, Asia, and Latin America. Donations are used for sustained enhancements of life conditions of children and their families. Examples are improved access to drinking-water and health care, support for nourishment, education, and means to ease the effects of HIV/AIDS.

CCF supports family help programs through its children sponsoring system, for example in Egypt, Benin, Bolivia, Burundi, Ecuador, Gambia, Guatemala, Honduras, India, Kenya, Mexico, Philippines, Senegal, and Uganda.

Between employees in various countries, a lot of coordination and project support is required. For that purpose, CCF uses the eMeeting product of Foroso, which works well on heterogeneous and sometimes unreliable Internet infrastructure. „By moving much of our communication with local partners onto the web, we expect an increased communication quality and a significant cost reduction in favor of our target group“, says Jörn Ziegler, CEO of CCF Kinderhilfswerk. Usage of the Foroso product saves travel and phone cost. eMeetings are used for global communication between project partners, coordination of project plans, tracking of project status, and education of employees and local project members.

“Foroso convinced us through its unusual ease of use. Our employees are not technicians and everything has to work quickly and without problems, in order to be accepted and consistently used“, states Dr. Werner

Küpper, programm coordinator for CCF Kinderhilfswerk. „During the pilot project, we positively verified that Foroso meets these requirements.“

"CCF Kinderhilfswerk is a professional organization that pursues its social objectives in an efficient and competent manner“, says Elmar Merget, Chief Operating Officer of Foroso Communications. “We are proud that we can assist CCF and that the saved resources benefit disadvantaged children.“

CCF Kinderhilfswerk

As an independent unit of CCF International, CCF Kinderhilfswerk provides help for self-help based on principles of Christian charity. At the center of our work are needy children and their families in economically under-developed countries, independent of their sex, color, culture, and religion. The most important objectives of our work are the quick and sustained securing of a comprehensive supply in the areas nutrition, health, and education, as well as guidance towards lasting self-reliance.
